

BOMAC VETS PLUS AWARDED EUROPEAN GMP CERTIFICATION

(Knapp, WI, April 24, 2008)—Bomac Vets Plus, Inc. (BVP) a global animal health and nutrition product manufacturer, gained GMP certification this April after inspection by an international certification body. This inspection fulfilled an annual European audit requirement based on PDV-GMP standards, under ISO:9001:2000. Through mutual recognition, BVP is also certified by OVOCOM and meets European Feed Additives and Premixtures Quality System (FAMI-QS) standards.

A GMP certification acts as a foundation for a company's quality and management systems, assuring that manufacturing and food safety standards are followed. "This is the third year we've been approved for GMP certification," says Raj Lall, Bomac Vets Plus President and CEO. "This certification enhances our sales of branded and contract manufactured products. Our customers depend on a consistent and clear quality management system, and we have effectively applied 18 years of experience to our products and processes."

Bomac Vets Plus' Quality Assurance and Quality Control Systems ensure compliance with GMP standards. Manufacturing management systems include internal auditing, Hazard Analysis Critical Control Point (HACCP) plans, production training, supplier evaluations, sampling systems, lab analysis plans, and non-conformance procedures. "When an auditor sees quality, he or she knows it. This has been my experience with auditors," says Quality Control Manager Anita Sinha. "They (auditors) can see countless documents, but one question asked to the manufacturing team reveals everything about a company."

"Our certification gives confidence to domestic and international buyers and customers. They know that we make superior products," says Sinha. "The auditors complimented us nicely, noting that our manufacturing followed a comprehensive, up-to-date quality manual and system."
